

Complain Better

Week of June 11, 2017

Rule #3

Habakkuk 3 • Message 3

Review

Rule 1: Talk to the “manager” and listen to what he says.

Rule 2: Keep faith in God’s authority, his coming judgment, and his unbelievable grace.

Rule 3: Fill your mind with the truths of God’s supremacy, and sing praise!

What do you remember most clearly from our study of Habakkuk?

How do you think you have you grown during our study of Habakkuk?

Habakkuk’s Conclusion

Read Habakkuk 3. What do you see in this chapter today?

What does this phrase mean to you today?

No matter how strong the enemy is, God is stronger.

Habakkuk refers to and quotes a number of Old Testament passages from Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, Psalms and more. This makes sense because he was asking God to renew his actions of old. But it also shows us that what helped Habakkuk finally come to terms with his situation and find joy and peace in the midst of it was because he had remembered God’s Word and chose to sing it as a song.

What is it about singing that helps to make truths personal?

How important has singing songs of worship been in your life?

What does Habakkuk’s song mean to you?

Take a second look at verses 17-18. Could those words be true of you today? If not, what do you think would make them true for you? If so, is there someone in your life who needs you to bring that truth to them?

Complain Better

Week of June 11, 2017

Rule #3

Habakkuk 3 • Message 3

Review

Rule 1: Talk to the “manager” and listen to what he says.

Rule 2: Keep faith in God’s authority, his coming judgment, and his unbelievable grace.

Rule 3: Fill your mind with the truths of God’s supremacy, and sing praise!

What do you remember most clearly from our study of Habakkuk?

How do you think you have you grown during our study of Habakkuk?

Habakkuk’s Conclusion

Read Habakkuk 3. What do you see in this chapter today?

What does this phrase mean to you today?

No matter how strong the enemy is, God is stronger.

Habakkuk refers to and quotes a number of Old Testament passages from Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, Psalms and more. This makes sense because he was asking God to renew his actions of old. But it also shows us that what helped Habakkuk finally come to terms with his situation and find joy and peace in the midst of it was because he had remembered God’s Word and chose to sing it as a song.

What is it about singing that helps to make truths personal?

How important has singing songs of worship been in your life?

What does Habakkuk’s song mean to you?

Take a second look at verses 17-18. Could those words be true of you today? If not, what do you think would make them true for you? If so, is there someone in your life who needs you to bring that truth to them?